Trafford Publishing, Canada, 2007. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 218 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .James Artis Morgan said good-bye to his sister, and left England at the age of 27 after his mother died. He took his diary and poem-book which he read to the many people he befriended in his travels. He also related many interesting stories to them. He always kept in constant touch with his sister. Arrived in New York, America. Experienced Red Indian attacks. Witnessed the ruins after the Civil War in the Southern States. Made friends with River Boat Detective and played a part in the capture of a fraudster. Travelled by train across to the west. Looked around San Francisco. Had a desire to travel again. To Australia. Arrived in Sydney, Australia. Stayed at boarding-house and made friends. One man got him a job on the railways which he enjoyed. One other helped him overthrow a gang of ruffians at a station one day. James had a yearning to visit the Far East. This time it was India. Arrived in Calcutta, India, where his life began to take on a much more interesting shape. He was shocked at the amount of Europeans and their high-class lifestyle in this city. He befriended a man who recommended a guest-house. He travelled with James to many historical places including the Taj-Mahal and James learned a lot about the Indian s way of life, which he writes to his sister about. The land-lady recommended James to her friend a Loco-Foreman on the Eastern Bengal Railway. James was employed by the railways. After his apprenticeship he got a promotion to Head Driver of a goods train, and had a trusty Indian fireman to assist him. James spent a lot of enjoyable...
